

DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF CONGO

Bonobos

DATES: 23rd August to 4th September 2026

DURATION: 13 days / 12 nights

SUMMARY: Middle-Africa have been travelling and exploring DRC since 2016 and has seen the great potential of this country for those travelers looking for last virgin places on the Planet. This is a trip focused in Bonobos.

According to the WWF, Bonobos and chimpanzees look very similar and both share 98.7% of their DNA with humans—making the two species our closest living relatives. Bonobos are usually a bit smaller, leaner and darker than chimpanzees. Their society is also different—bonobo groups tend to be more peaceful and are led by females. They also maintain relationships and settle conflicts through sex. However, bonobo life isn't entirely violence free; if two groups of bonobos come together, they may engage in serious fighting.

Wild bonobos can only be found in forests south of the Congo River in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC). Sometimes known as the pygmy chimpanzee, bonobos weren't recognized as a separate species until 1929. As the last great ape to be scientifically described, much remains unknown about the bonobo—including the extent of its geographic range. Efforts to survey the species over the past two decades have been hampered by the remote nature of its habitat, the patchiness of their distribution and years of civil unrest within the DRC.

Civil unrest and increasing poverty in the area around the bonobos' forests have contributed to bonobo poaching and deforestation. Though the size of the bonobo population is largely unknown, it has likely been declining for the last 30 years. Scientists believe that the decline will continue for the next 45 to 55 years due to the bonobo's low reproductive rate and growing threats.

Doing this trip, you participate and help to the Bonobos conservation projects.

Day 3 (Tuesday 25 August): BASANKUSU – LINGUNDA

At 6 am walk to the River and start an amazing trip (10h) with a dogout canoe deep inside the rainforest. In the canoe we will be all seated in chairs with an umbrella –please bring from home- and have breakfast, lunch, coffee and snacks. Time to read, to relax, to listen and contemplate the nature with the river, sky, clouds, trees, birds, monkeys, etc. Arrival in Lingunda village before the night falls and spend the night. Accommodation in: tents. BLD

Day 4 (Wednesday 26 August): LINGUNDA – LOMAKO-YOKOKALA RESERVE

Breakfast, visit Lingunda and go back to the Lomako River for a 2h30min canoe trip and enter in the Lomako-Yokokala Faunal Reserve. The Lomako Forest consists of the area between the Yokokala and Lomako rivers. Arrival and walk 3h through the jungle to the Camp where we will stay the next days. Relax and 'bucket shower' from a very clean water spring that we will also drink during these days. We are deep inside of a pure rainforest where we will have the chance to observe wild Bonobos (very good vision and all the time you will like to stay with them and follow them) and other fauna. In this forest there's wildlife like Red-tailed monkeys, Wolf's Guenons, Black Mangabeys, Angolan Colobuses (these 4 monkeys are easy to observe), Allen's Swamp Monkey and other monkeys, Red River Hogs, Western Blue and Peter's Duikers, Bay Duikers and Weyns's Duikers, many African Palm Civets, White-Bellied Pangolin, Giant Pangolin, Lesser Anomalure, Lord Derby, Demidoff's Galago and other different and bigger Galagos, good population of Golden Cats (from camera traps, but very rare to observe), Leopards (few and difficult to observe), and over 400 species of birds like the Congo Peafowl.

Accommodation in: tents (good tent with good mattress and a chair). BLD

Days 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10: LOMAKO-YOKOKALA RESERVE

Bonobos trekking every morning for 4 persons + guides, including an specialist in Bonobos researchal and conservation. The clients will have the chance to do 2 times (maybe 3) this activity. We will also do by day and night more walks in the forest looking for other wildlife. Is important to know and explain to the clients that we have look for different places where there's Bonobos and this is the best place that we have found where you can really observe Bonobos in the wild, in good conditions, near from you and surrounded by an amazing and rich forest.

Accommodation in: tents. BLD
