Report of 2020 May/June China Sichuan & Tibet Plateau Wildlife Expedition

By Tang Jun/China Mammal Tour

16 June 2020

Sillem's Rosefinch

Brown Bear

Earlier of 2020, Coronavirus Pneumonia/COVID-19 sweeps the whole globe and we are not allowed to travel around and no wildlife business. Then our team (China Mammal Tour) able to use this time finally realized our mammal expedition planned 8 years ago.

Our main purpose is Sillem's Rosefinch re-discovered by Yann Muzika in 2012 and deep research some remote sites of Sichuan & Tibet Plateau where few people reached for some quality mammals.

We ended with a fruitful trip and proudly announce that we are the first group of Chinese wildlife lovers who got Sillem's Rosefinch and we also put some high quality mammals like Snow Leopard, Lynx, Pallas's Cat, Brown Bear, Argali, Tibetan Antelope, Wild Yak into our pocket.

We start on 25 May at Chengdu and back on 12 June total 6036km.

27 May Ruoergai 650km to into Qinghai province to Xining.

We spent about 2 hours at mountain/wetland area northern of Ruoergai.

Pallas's Cat (3 at two sites), Grey Wolf(1), Red Fox(5), Tibetan Fox(2), Plateau Pike (lots), Saker Falcon, Eagle Owl.....

28 May Xining to Kor Kor Nor Lake to Heimahe. 400km

We got Przewalski's Gazelle (two flocks at two sites total 40+) and some wetland birds at the lake.

29-30-31 May After morning research the nearby Rubber Mountain for Przewalski's Finch and mammals, we drive to Gouli where few people reach for wildlife. We stay at ranger's base where can provide home made meal & accommodation (total 12 beds) and a big sitting room where can easy lying down more people by using sleeping bags.

At Rubber mountain, we easy to get the finch and some other birds. And we mainly spent out time at Rubber Mountain for mammals. We used to see Pallas's Cat and Wolf in our former trips but this time we only get Tibetan & Red Fox.

The two days at Gouli is excellent through the basic food and accommodation, we did daily trips to different valley nearby.

No.1 Valley: Snow Leopard(only 1 time), Pallas's Cat (2 times at two sites), Kiang(lots), Blue Sheep(lots), Tibetan Gazelle(lots), Wolf(1), high possibility on Brown Bear(we did not see).

2 June 12 participants by three 4WD cars: first day of the Sillem's Rosefinch expedition: FAILED
We started at 4am and about 6 hours later arrive at Sillem's Rosefinch site.

The last 30km is horrible and no obvious track and what you can do is drive along the river bank/sand/grassland/terrain and find your own way.

Finally we get there at about 10.00am and searched the site inch by inch for 4 hours and have to decide to return before the iced land melt.

Although we saw some quality mammals (Brown Bear, Tibetan Antelope, Argali, Wild Yak) but we are still very sad of the first day expedition. This is a 8-year plan but we can not see it!

Tibetan Antelope (Chiu) Female

3 June 7 participants by two 4WD cars: second day of the Sillem's Rosefinch expedition: SUCCEED!!

Thanks the decision we MUST return again and we start at 4am again. 2 cars and 7 participants. Head to Sillem's Site directly without any stop for other wildlife. We reached Sillem's Rosefinch site at about 07.30am, and saw the bird in half an hour. We succeed!!

07.30am we got there, I handed the job to each participants: Parus sweep the higher rocky area where should be the nests located, Tang Jun and Robbi plus two ladies (Zhong & Yang) stay in the middle where mainly the feeding area, Jay Wu scan the lower area. We split up and start the mission.

At about 07.50, I heard one very weak whistling from somewhere higher right in front of me, it is not the call of the Tibetan Rosefinch and the common Horned Lark, I estimated it was should be at about 30m away, then I put bins and carefully study the area. I saw a "Brandt's Mountain Finch" feeding on the ground but with typical BROWN head, not the black one. God save me, it is the Sillem's Rosefinch. All colleagues closed up in 2 minutes at 5080m area.

Left: Yang Xiaosui, Liu Jinsong, Robbi Zhu, Jay Wu, Zhong Hongying, Tang Jun, Parus Yang

About 5 minutes the great enjoy with the bird, we decide down hill earlier possible to search other mammals after a short hot coffee celebration.

We added Argali, Lynx, Grey Wolf, Tibetan Antelope, Tibetan Gazelle, Wild Yak into our list.

Wild Yak

5 June: Qumalai to Yushu 220km

We spent most of our time at the mountain valley just before Zhiduo located about 1 hour drive from Qumalai. The valley at about 5km long and big mountains topped by snow at each side. Perfect place for some good quality mammals.

And then we drive from Zhiduo toward a village named Suojia where supposed to be a very good site for Snow Leopard, but according to the GPS, it is short distance (120km away) but need 5-6 hours thus you can imagine what the road should be.

We saw: Pallas's Cat, Argali, Wild Yak, White-leeped Deer, Tibetan Fox

White-lipped Deer

Argali

After check some sites which looks very good and return to Zhiduo and carry on to Yushu for overnight at very good hotel.

6 June Yushu to Nangqian and stay at Nangqian for Tibetan Bunting, Tibetan Barbarian and Buff-throated Partridge

7-8 June Nangqian back to Yushu and drive into Sichuan at Shiqu where has the biggest nature reserve of Sichuan and good site for Pallas's Cat, Kiang, Snow Leopard

9-10 June Drive 410km to Xinlong to visit the different habitat of the 7 kinds of cats.

By the help of local nature reserve and we did a two days inside different valley to check the various habitat of 7-kind-cats: Snow Leopard, Leopard, Golden Cat, Chinese Mountain Cats, Lynx, Leopard Cat and Pallas's Cat.

We not succeed to see any of them but it was a great experience to stay with local expert and enjoy the Tibetan family.
